INTRODUCTION.

For the purpose of preserving and cherishing the noble ideals of that citizenship born and matured in the mother State of Ohio, to build, broaden and deepen, the sentiment of family friendships and fraternity, to revive and give to posterity the sacred memories that more effectually unite us in one fast-spreading community are some of the motives that move the Ohio settlers of DeWitt County, Illinois, to form the Ohio society of this County. Ideals and traditions if good, must live. As proof of divinity, they do live. The people of the earth by the despoiling hand of extermination and the national outcasting of a race have not obliterated the unity, the traditions of the Jews, who unite in every land to defy the unjust and cruel ravages of fate. The Greek people of old planted their banner in many climes and with it the deathless beauties of their architecture and sculpture as seen in the graven stone that peers above their sands.

Historians never chronicled the common place. It is only the thing startling, the hero valorous and great, that is written to be read and remembered. If any state or commonwealth is so small as to be swallowed, forgotten or lost there is in it certainly no worthy excellence. All hail the children of Ohio! Providence sent in the past the heroes of sturdy, brown and strong arm, into its once virgin wastes. The mighty timbers fell before his onward march; what would have made a weakling tremble was to him a feasible task. He simply waved his magic wand. Almost with a veritable chisel and mallet he carved out a home and after his march there arose a sheen dotted with palaces and festooned with graves, the hum of legions of towns sang his triumph, and from the chaos arose Ohio, the symbol of wealth, a mother of statesmen, a teacher of states; these are the laurels that victory brought after the ocean of blood and tears shed in the war with wild nature. It was truly "ad astra per aspera." The song that history sings of the pioneers more brave than the armored shakkled knight of old or war's modern hero. None the less do we love and prize dear old Illinois, the state of our adoption, blest of heaven and sanctified by the memory of its immortals ever sacred to us. But would it not be even viler to forget our mother commonwealth? Would it not be ungrateful to disregard and discredit the source from which we directly inherit our ethics, our examples of industry and the sacred teachings of our families, Ohio has given Grant, McKinley, Garfield, Hayes and Harrison as presidents and Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, McPherson, Rosencrans and Custer also to the world's annals of greatness. Has it not at the same time given those superb examples of a race or communion whose virtues, whose ideals, whose tradition and whose deathless friendships are worthy of mutual regard and treasure. We will meet from year to year not in the narrow plane of clanship nor within political sectarians or even religious lines. On the other hand we welcome to the field of laudable organization and emulation the united children of other great states who may be our rivals in the God-given work of preserving traditions, of developing fraternity and cementing friendships. The aboriginal Natchez of the lower Mississippi Valley kept a perpetual fire on their tribunal altars which symbolized the spirit of their people. Should the fire die it meant death or extinction to the tribe. To keep it alive, was therefore a stern religious duty; let the altars of Buckeye friendship glow with life and flame with age.

WELDON SPRINGS PARK AND LAKE

A FINE SUMMER RESORT

A number of citizens of Clinton and vicinity interested in the welfare of the city and surrounding country had for a number of years planned for a public park or resort to which they might betake themselves in their leisure hours and enjoy the pleasures which a day in these public places brings. Not until the spring of 1898 did their plans take definite shape. It was then that forty acres was leased from Hon. Lawrence Weldon for a period of fifty years. The spot is ideal. Indeed nature could not be improved upon.

The location is but a short distance from the city, three miles, a most pleasant drive, and through one of the most fertile spots of Central Illinois. On reaching the grounds one is impressed with beautiful scenery. A lake covering an area of sixteen acres, is bounded on three sides by hills which rise gradually from the water's edge, from the summit of which the grounds gently slope, interspersed here and there with valleys.

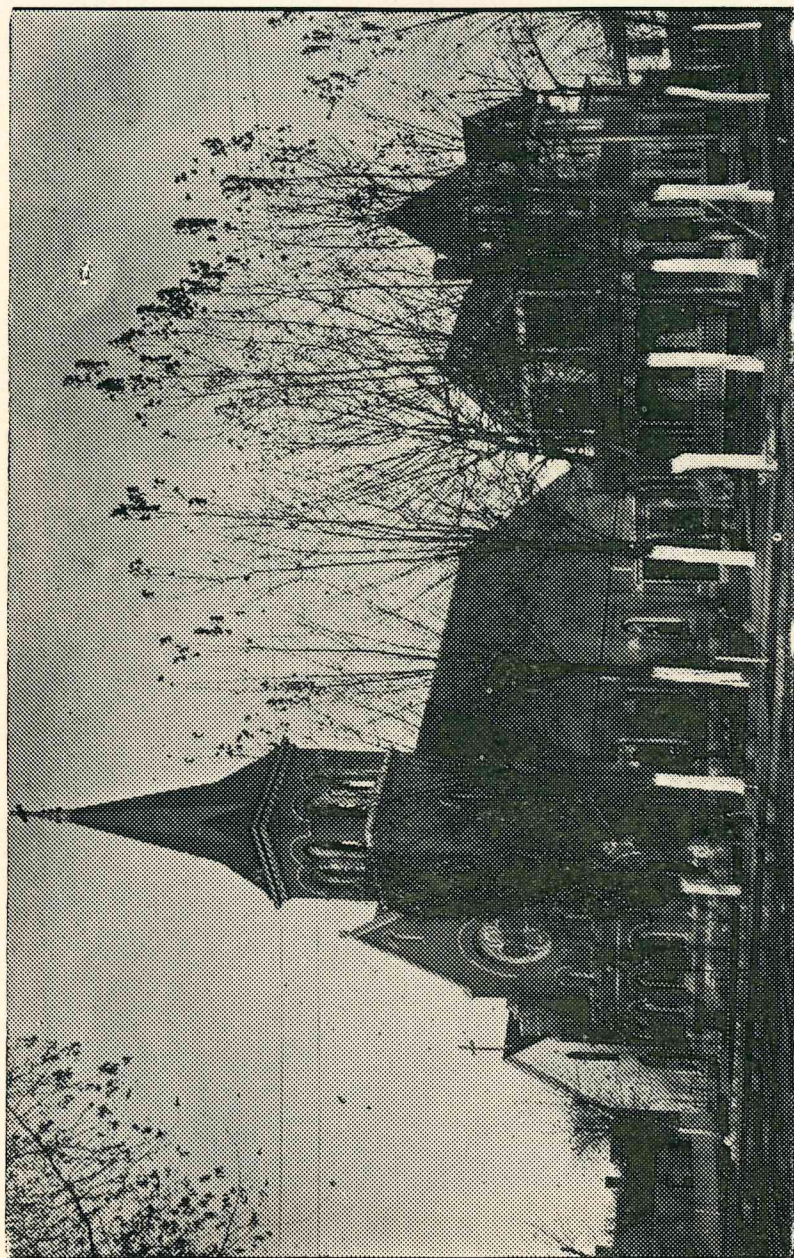

Groves of oak and other trees make an abundance of shade, and go into almost any part of the grounds you may, a spring may be found gushing forth its abundance of bright, pure, invigorating water to quench the thirst of the pleasure seeker. Many of these springs have been developed, hundreds of them have not. They are constant, no more or less whether the season be wet or dry. This would indicate they are deep-seated and will be never failing. The famous Twin Springs, of which so much has been written has a flow 120,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours. This is but one of the many that has been a wonder to the thousands of visitors who have there quenched their thirst and marveled at its beauty.

This splendid park takes its name from Hon. Lawrence Weldon, Judge of the Court of Claims, Washington, D. C., from whom the forty acres was leased for a period of years. Every means of comfort is provided for those to enjoy a day or week's outing. In 1901 the Weldon Springs Chautauqua was organized. At first this was an experiment, but every year since that time, has proven the wisdom of the promoters by an increased attendance each year. Today the Weldon Springs Chautauqua is one of the best organized and prosperous in the state.
